Description of remains, precise location and stratification (attach plans if necessary)

Approximately 100 sherds of Romano British pottery were found in a scatter of about 15m × 20m.

Mostly Grey ware but including two sherds of Nene Valley, two of colour coated and two of Black Burnished.

Box flue tile and flanged roof tile were also noted, along with other undeterminate fired clay objects, one of which resembles a kiln bar fragment?

No normal medieval/post medieval pottery scatters were also collected.
(Nor earlier ware, Cistercian ware, Midland Purple)
1 flint flake with some secondary flaking.

Conclusions

Future Work.

It is intended to go back to this site when it is next ploughed and accurately plot the scatter. Adjacent to the scatter was a small red patch with indeterminate bricks fragments.
